

American Society of International Law 2008 Academic Partnership Program

An ASIL Partnership: Your School's High Visibility Opportunity

From publishing the award-winning quarterly, the American Journal of International Law, to hosting the world's largest annual gathering of international law experts, the American Society of International Law has maintained strong partnerships with the academic community for 101 years.

Launched in 2006, ASIL's Academic Partnership Program enables academic institutions to promote their programs, stay current on new developments, and establish their leadership in a growing field.

The complete list of benefits is outlined in this Prospectus. Fifteen schools, listed below, became Partners in 2007. Your School can join them.
