

A program of the Bluhm Legal Clinic Center for International Human Rights and Northwestern Journal of International Human Rights

Atrocity Crimes Litigation Year-in-Review (2007) Conference

Friday, January 25, 2008 (1:30-5 p.m.)

1:30 p.m. (Rubloff 150) (snacks)—Keynote address by U.S. Ambassador at Large for War Crimes Issues Clint Williamson

2:30-5 p.m. (8th Floor, Rubloff—Bluhm Legal Clinic)—Panel Discussion moderated by Professor Scheffer

Distinguished panelists examine the jurisprudence of the international and hybrid criminal tribunals during the calendar year 2007 in this first-ever conference in the United States. The 2007 decisions and judgments of the International Criminal Tribunals for the Former Yugoslavia and Rwanda, the Special Court for Sierra Leone, the Iraqi High Tribunal, the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia, and the International Criminal Court will be discussed by six leading practitioners and scholars of the tribunals: Prosecutors Stephen Rapp, David Tolbert, George Mugwanya, and Christine Chung and Professors William Schabas (Ireland), Bassiouni (DePaul), and Scheffer (Northwestern).

Sponsored by Baker & McKenzie and the Center for International Human Rights

*In partnership with:
Human Rights Watch, the American Society of International Law, Northwestern International Law Society, and the Northwestern University Journal of International Human Rights*

www.hrw.org

For more information, please see <http://www.law.northwestern.edu/jihr>