ASIL Insights

AUTHOR INFORMATION AND DRAFTING GUIDELINES

ASIL Insights provide brief, balanced accounts and analyses of significant legal developments, newsworthy events, and timely topics related to international law. Insights have run the gamut of topics in international law. Potential contributors are encouraged to look at past Insights for a sense of the Insight approach to legal issues and topics covered in recent years.

Insights authors should follow these guidelines when drafting Insights for submission and in considering proposals for Insights topics.

Insights does not accept articles if the author has represented a party in the case or other matter described. Other personal involvement must be disclosed to the editors in the initial query to the Insights editorial board and will be considered on a case by case basis. Insights readers value the expertise of the authors, and their objectivity.

DRAFTING INSIGHTS

Insights must be concise: no more than 2000 words, including endnotes, and preferably less.

Insights should be drafted in style and language accessible by the general public, including the media, as well as by members of the legal profession.

Authors are also asked to be as objective as possible. Insights are not advocacy pieces. Authors should present both sides of debatable points. Similarly, authors should refrain from reaching conclusions about the legality or illegality of any action a government or other international person has taken (unless there is an obvious conclusion to be made).

Insights technical specifications are few but important. When preparing an Insight for submission please consider the following:

1. Draft Insights must be submitted in electronic form, preferably in MS Word.
2. Spell-check and proofread all drafts prior to submission.
3. Keep endnotes to a minimum (preferably no more than twenty-five endnotes). Please follow the Bluebook system of citation.

EDITING, PEER REVIEW, AND PUBLICATION

A member of the Insights board of editors will work closely with the author to provide a substantive review of his or her article before it is reviewed again for citation and formatting by additional ASIL staff. Basic copy edits and substantive changes to the original draft will be shared with the author. Any errors, discrepancies, or gaps in information identified by the editor or peer reviewer will also be brought to the author’s attention. Minor, non-substantive changes may not necessarily be shared with the author. Once a draft Insight has been thoroughly edited and reviewed, it will be formatted by ASIL and prepared for publication.
DISSEMINATION

All Insights are uploaded to ASIL.org and sent to subscribers by email. Each new Insight will appear on the ASIL homepage and will be made available from the “Current Insight” link before being transferred to the Insights archive.

Hardcopies of selected Insights will also be made available at ASIL events and incorporated into ASIL outreach efforts involving policymakers, the NGO community, academia, media outlets, members of the legal profession, and other audiences.

Educational and news media copying of ASIL Insights is permitted with due acknowledgement. In such instances, the following language should be prominently displayed:

> This article, first published as an ASIL Insight, is reprinted with permission from the American Society of International Law, www.asil.org. © American Society of International Law.

INSIGHTS CONTACT INFORMATION

Inquiries about ASIL Insights as well as submissions of ideas and draft Insights should be communicated to the ASIL Managing Editor at insights@asil.org.