ABOUT THE SOCIETY

The American Society of International Law is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, educational membership organization founded in 1906 and chartered by Congress in 1950. The mission of ASIL is to foster the study of international law and to promote the establishment and maintenance of international relations on the basis of law and justice. ASIL holds Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations and is a constituent society of the American Council of Learned Societies.

The Society's nearly 4,000 members from more than 100 nations include attorneys, academics, corporate counsel, judges, representatives of governments and nongovernmental organizations, international civil servants, students, and others interested in international law. Through our meetings, publications, information services, and outreach programs, ASIL advances international law scholarship and education for international law professionals as well as for broader policy-making audiences and the public.

WELCOME

We are pleased to welcome you to the Ninth Midyear Meeting of the American Society of International Law. This annual event is held in different cities and regions with the goal of strengthening the Society's connections with international practitioners, scholars, and law students around the United States and from 16 other countries. We are delighted to return to Los Angeles, the home of the Society's first Research Forum (and its second Midyear Meeting) in 2011, and want to thank our hosts for their warm welcome and support.

The Midyear Meeting will begin with the Practitioners' Forum on Thursday afternoon. The theme, "Regulation of the Internet in the Transnational Arena," will address a range of timely issues, including state censorship, hate speech and disinformation, and freedom of information. The program will include keynote remarks by Göran Marby, CEO and President of ICANN, followed by a distinguished panel that will explore many of these issues.

On Friday and Saturday, the Research Forum will continue the tradition of featuring works-in-progress by over 70 authors, including students, new professionals, and seasoned from academia, practice, government, and international organizations. The topics cover nearly every area of international law, from investment arbitration to the rights of indigenous peoples to cyberspace.

The panels are designed to bring out common themes among the papers, with each session led by an expert discussant. The Research Forum will also feature a pair of plenary lunchtime discussions addressing "Current Developments in International Trade" (Friday) and "The Role of the U.N. Special Rapporteur" (Saturday).

The Midyear Meeting also offers law students and new attorneys valuable networking and professional development opportunities as they consider careers in international law, including several practical training sessions, a "speed mentoring" event, and multiple receptions.

This Research Forum also will include a very special occasion: a Convocation to celebrate the launch of the David D. Caron Fund. The Fund has been established to honor the life and achievements of David D. Caron, a much-admired leader of the Society who developed the concept of the Research Forum during his presidency. The primary purpose of the Fund is to enhance and sustain the Research Forum, including through two new named activities: The David D. Caron Prize, for the best paper presented at the Research Forum by a current student or recent graduate; and the David D. Caron Fellowships, which will provide financial assistance to students or recent graduates selected to present a paper at the Research Forum. The Convocation will include the announcement of the winner of the inaugural David D. Caron Prize.

We would like to express our thanks to all of our presenters and discussants, as well as to the Research Forum committee, chaired by Kal Raustiala, Victoria Shannon Sahani, and Jarrod Wong.

We extend our special thanks to our Midyear Meeting hosts: UCLA School of Law and Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP. We particularly wish to express our appreciation to Dean Jennifer Mnookin of UCLA School of Law and the faculty and staff of the International and Comparative Law Program, and Asli Bâli, faculty director of the Promise Institute for Human Rights, for their gracious hospitality in hosting and cosponsoring the Research Forum; and to Perlette Michèle Jura and Rahim Moloo of Gibson Dunn & Crutcher LLP, for hosting and underwriting the Practitioners' Forum.

Finally, we thank deputy executive director D. Wes Rist and all of the members of the Society's professional staff who have devoted many months of effort to planning this event.

It's good to have you with us. We wish you a productive and enjoyable meeting.

2019 Arthur Helton Fellowships Applications Open

Established in 2004, the Arthur C. Helton Fellowship Program recognizes the legacy of Arthur Helton, a prominent human rights advocate and ASIL member. Helton died in the August 19, 2003 bombing of the UN mission in Baghdad together with UN High Commissioner for Human Rights Sergio Viera de Mello and 20 others.

Funded through the generous support of ASIL members, interest groups, and private foundations, Helton Fellowships provide financial assistance in the form of “micro-grants” of $2,000 for law students and new professionals to pursue field work and research on significant issues involving international law, human rights, humanitarian affairs, and related areas.

Arthur C. Helton

Helton Fellowships are intended to provide modest funding that can make the difference in enabling future international lawyers, scholars, and advocates to pursue a life-changing professional experience.

Applications for the 2019 class of Helton Fellows are open until Monday, January 28, 2019.

Find out more about the next round of Helton Fellowship applications online at www.asil.org/helton.

Practitioners' Forum

Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, LLP

Regulation of the Internet in the Transnational Arena

As information technology has permeated global society, so too has the ability and desire of national governments to use and regulate flows of information, especially across the internet. Governments have become adept at using social media to reshape narratives about their political opponents, to skew national perceptions of global issues, and to promote disinformation on government actions. At the same time, social media platforms, the news media, academics, technology companies, and general users are facing governmental efforts in multiple jurisdictions to restrict posting of and access to information. This practitioner's forum will feature keynote remarks by the CEO of ICANN and a discussion with a panel experts from private practice, the corporate world, and academia who will engage these complex issues.

6:00-7:30 Practitioners' Forum panel & discussion

Keynote: Göran Marby,
CEO and President, Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN)

Panelists: Tricia Cross, 21st Century Fox
